Case Approach Clinical Pearls References Comprehension Questions

A 37-year-old man presents to your office with the complaint of cough. The cough began approximately 3 months prior to this appointment, and it has become more annoying to the patient. The cough is nonproductive and worse at night and after exercise. He has had a sedentary lifestyle but recently started an exercise program, including jogging, and says he is having a much harder time with the exertion. He runs out of breath earlier than expected, has a small amount of white, frothy sputum, or weight loss. He denies nasal congestion, wheezing, or chest tightness. His examination is notable for a blood pressure of 130/80 mm Hg, a normal heart rate, and normal lung sounds. A chest radiograph is read as normal.
